

Take advice before taking a new lease

The recent revision of the Code for Leasing Business Premises means that as of 1 April 2007 service charges for new leases should be according to new standard industry cost code headings. For any disputes about service charge matters, parties wishing to access alternative dispute resolution can consult the Code for further details at www.servicechargecode.co.uk.

This Code of Practice is supported by the leading bodies connected to property ownership and management, who have worked together closely to produce clear guidance to benefit property professionals, owners or occupiers.
